TALK WAS A GEM.

And Tonight the Men May Look Out for Some Pointed Remarks.

High Point, March 9—Little Frances Tate, whose illness has been noted in the these columns died at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. H. C. Field, last night of pneumonia. The sorrow-stricken family and relatives have the sympathy of our community.

J. E. Walker and Wiley Rush, of Asheboro, were here last evening.

Among the travelers to Pinehurst yesterday were the following New Yorkers: J. S. Broadent and wife, G. A. Mesher, C. S. Wagneford; Mesdames L. C. Steed, J. H. Wisnir and W. A. Mewey.

Cyrus Wheeler succeeds his brother Homer as bookkeeper at the Union furniture factory.

W. H. Ragan has been appointed a member of the executive committee of the North Carolina agricultural society.

Rev. E. G. Lowdermilk, brother of our townsman and preacher, is here attending the meeting.

Robt. Storey of Fairview Lodge will leave in a few days for New York, where he takes passage for the old country. He is thinking of visiting Africa before returning

Rev. Roy Cadding is conducting a meeting in the Presbyterian church at Asheboro. On the 13th inst. Rev. Mr. Todd with Rev. Mr. LeLacher and Mrs. Reeves, returned missionaries from China, will commence a meeting there.

Mr. Summerrow of the Southern Newspaper Union, Charlotte, stopped off here today enroute to Pilot Mt.

The Asheboro telephone exchange has established an office at Biscoe

Troy is to have a new Methodist church to cost $3,000, so I learn.

There will be a public debate at Trinity tonight. Some from here will be in attendance. The query is, "Resolved, there should be compulsory education in North Carolina."

Trinity baseball team crosses bats with Glencoe this afternoon.

A. Russell Doss, of Lynchburg, Va., was here yesterday.

Rev. Mr. Pearson was at his best last night, when he talked especially to the mothers. His appeal to young womanhood, motherhood and prospective motherhood to the duties concerning them was touching and highly elevating. He denounced the society girl and mother in scathing terms and portrayed in word pictures the ideal Christian girl and mother in most beautiful terms. His talk was a gem. Tonight he preaches to the fathers, who can prepare for some pointed truths.

Mesdames White and Wood, two Trinity ladies, are reported seriously sick.

Rev. T. A. Smoot, of G. F. College, Greensboro, passed through here today enroute to Randleman, where he delivers an educational lecture in the school building tonight.

Mr. Burns takes charge of the Jorrell hotel today, having been kept away a day longer than was expected India Famine Fund.

All who have not responded to this appeal will please send their contributions at once to Mrs. F. E. Ross, treasurer, in Southern Loan and Trust Co's. building.

Think of these poor starving creatures and let us as Christian people try to help them, remembering that our Savior said, "It is more blessed to give than to receive."

STRUCK THE WRONG MAN.

A Good Story Picked up at Uncle Sam's Place of Business

A stranger wandered into the postoffice and called for the "proprietor." He was in trouble and evidently had not traveled much: We do not mean that his applying to the postoffice in his dilemma is evidence that he had not traveled, for Uncle Sam is getting to be a very accommodating old fellow.

The stranger was hungry and wanted directions to some place where he could get a square meal. The "proprietor" directed him to a neighboring cafe. Cafe was a new word in the stranger's vocabulary and he did not like the ring of it. He was on his guard now and thought of bunco steering and confidence men and the gilded temple of temptation, and so started up this dialogue:

Stranger.—"Do they keep anything to drink in the cafe, beer garden, or whatever you call it?"

"Proprietor."—"Oh no, we have a dispensary here. That keeps the stuff."

Stranger.—"That's good."

"Proprietor."—Well, I don't know about that, some say it's good, but others say it's bad."

Stranger (raising hands in protest)—"No, no, I didn't mean that. I meant that's right."

Then it was discovered by the "proprietor" that he had been talking to a total abstinence, itinerant Methodist preacher.

KRUGER AND STEYN PRESENT.

They Did Their Utmost to Rally the Men But in Vain.

Poplar Grove, March 9.—Both President Kruger and President Steyn were present at Wednesday's battle. They did all in their power to rally the men after they broke and fled before French's cavalry, but all their efforts were fruitless. The men bluntly refused to face the withering artillery fire on the front, with eight thousand cavalry sweeping around their rear. Both Presidents rode among the disordered forces begging, urging and commanding the men to face the music, but threats and entreaties were equally futile.

BOER WOMEN TO TAKE UP ARMS.

Pretoria, March 9.—The Boer women are enthusiastic over the end of the war. Recent reverses have aroused their patriotism. They will take up arms themselves in defense of their beloved republic. A number of women have offered to form a home guard, to enable the men who are now doing that duty to go to the front. The women are good shots and as courageous as their husbands.

Referred to Daughters of the Confederacy.

To the Editor of The Telegram:

I saw it stated a few days ago in the papers that the North Carolina room in the Confederate museum at Richmond, the old "White House" of the Confederacy, was sadly in need of attention, and that it was far from a credit to the state at present. It is very humiliating that the state which gave the most soldiers to the lost cause should neglect this slight honor to to those who fell in its behalf.

Would it not be well for the Greensboro chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy to take up this matter and, with other chapters, see that the proper thing is done in the way of looking after this room.

Free State Expected to Surrender.

London, March 9—The Times has an Asofontein dispatch which says that Roberts' victory has caused dismay at Bloemfontein and the submission of the Orange Free Staters is expected within a week. A Poplar Grove dispatch says that many of the Free State Burghers are clamouring for Steyn to surrender. The force opposing Roberts on Wednesday is now estimated at fifteen thousand and seems to have melted away in disorder before Frenche's pursuit.

A new enterprise that will attract interest is the New York and North Carolina Sheep-Raising Association, which has just purchased 51,000 acres of land to establish a sheep ranch in Burke county. It is claimed that this company will invest $500,000 in the enterprise. All the conditions are favorable, and there are no reasons why sheep-raising on a large scale should not pay in this state as well as it does anywhere. If the Burke county enterprise is a success it may lead to the establishment of a large new industry in the mountain counties.—Charlotte News.

A convention of Southerners is to be held in Montgomery, Ala., May 9th to "consider the race problem." Former Secretary Herbert will preside and a number of well known public men will be present. What they expect to accomplish by such a conference is not known. These race discussions are like the conventions to reduce the cotton acreage, and usually have about as much effect on the situation.—Charlotte News.

DEATH FOR HER LOVE'S SAKE.

FOR FAITHLESSNESS DRINKS THE DEADLY POISON.

And the Block of Perfidy is Married To Another Woman the Same Day She Dies.

Charlotte Observer, 9th.

Miss Mollie Little, of Madge, this county, died yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock. The cause of her death was laudanum, taken with suicidal intent.

At the time of her death Miss Little was visiting Mr. James Osborne, her brother-in-law, who lives at Kingwood. The night previous to her death she had appeared cheerful and happy. At an early hour she retired. Some time in the early morning a member of Mr. Osborne's family heard a noise in Miss Little's room, as if she had moved across the floor, but after a moment no sound could be heard.

When Mr. Osborne and his family had risen in the morning and Miss Little did not appear one of the children went to her room and found her lying across the bed, unconscious. Finding that efforts to arouse her were in vain, Mr. Osborne sent for physicians, who arrived at the house about 9 o clock. Close to the bed they found a large bottle containing a small amount of laudanum; and they understood. They used all known means to resuscitate Miss Little and for awhile it was thought she would recover; but the drug was too insidious and powerful in its effects to be overcome, and the unfortunate young woman died without having regained consciousness.

After death had come Miss Little's relatives looked about the room and discovered freshly written letters addressed to several members of her family. A sealed letter was found. It bore no address, but at the top of the envelope was written the word "Beware!" Below—on the envelope—was a written request that the contents of the letter be read "at the funeral."

This last letter was opened. From the first sentence it sounded the key note of the tragedy. It was the theme of love, mad, hungry, fierce, passionate love—unrequitted love. Sentences quavered from the sternness of reproach to the trembling, strengthless cry for forgiveness, but through it all was the tense, suffering heart of a loving woman.

As told, or suggested, by the letter, the story of Miss Little's life is pitifully simple. She had lived with her parents at Madge. Her father is a farmer and rents his land from Mr. George Smith. For a long time she had received attention from Charley Jordon, a young man who lives at Hickory Grove. He had professed love for her; she had loved him. Three months ago he grew tired of her and avoided her. Then Miss Little heard that he was engaged to another woman. The rumor was confirmed, and finally she knew that the man who had deserted her was to marry Miss Laura Wallace yesterday afternoon

Therefore Miss Little resolved to die. On Monday last she came to Charlotte and purchased a pint of laudanum. After this, being prepared for her purpose, she made her farewell to her people in letters written from time to time, and ending with the sealed letter of twelve pages that carries the ominous "Beware!"—the one that is to be published to world at her grave.

This letter, in its tear-stained pages will tell Miss Little's relatives that she wants them to pray for Jordan because she loved him and "if he does not repent, he is bound for hell." She wanted to go to heaven and hoped that she might go there; "but," runs the phrasing, "if I go to hell he will be the cause."

The mother of the deceased is thanked for her goodness to Miss Little during her sickness last summer and for her prayers. There will be more words that will tell of love for relatives, but most of the letters will speak of love for the faithless man. The ideas vary, the expression is harsh, hysterical, crude, soft, but the meaning of it all is merely the love and madness of it and the will to seek heartease from heartbreak in death.

And she wanted to hurt Jordon—to sting him, force him to the shame of open shame and remorse. 'Twas the instinct unrefined, but she was human, She was a woman.

That no element in the completion of this story may be lacking, Jordon has lived up to his part. Yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock—an hour after Miss Little's death—he was married to Miss Laura Wallace, in the Hickory Grove church.

The last teachers' meeting, held Saturday night, March 3rd, was a most interesting occassion to all present. Professor Clay read a well prepared paper on high school duty, and Prof. Johnston, a helpful and practical paper entitled, "Four Suggestions for the Improvement of our Schools." A system of lectures has been arranged to be delivered before the school by the teachers in turn. The first will be delivered March 9th by Professor Clay.

A good delegation of students will go from the school to the Y. M. C. A. state convention to be held in Greensboro in April. The record of membership in school is one hundred per cent that is every student in school is a member of the Y. M. C. A., either active or associate.

KRUGER WANTS TERMS.

But Salisbury is Believed to Have Refused Him.

London, March 9.—President Kruger has cabled overtures for peace. Lord Salisbury is believed to have refused them.

Correspondents say there is a growing outcry against any further identification of the Free State with the Transvaal's interests.

Before this there were signs of peace in various quarters. All dispatches from Roberts' headquarters, including his own indicates the lack of a guiding spirit among the Boers, and also indicates individual demoralization, fortending disintegration unless speedily stemmed.

Broke His Neck.

Charlotte News.

Tom Kerns, colored, fell from the top of a tram way, a distance of forty feet, at the Charlotte Oil and Fertilizer Works this morning about ten minutes before 4 o'clock, and broke his neck

Kerns was an old hand at the mill and was a very excellent one. He had charge of the dump cart, running it up the tram way and dumping the acid into the acid chambers. He went up the tram way about 10 minutes before 4 o'clock. That was the time he was seen alive. He was found at four by several of the hands at the foot of the tram way, it being forty feet to the top. He had by some misstep, walked off the scaffold. The fall broke his neck and he died instantly. The coroner was sent for this morning to hold an inquest over the body.

FOR THE BABIES.

There is no better medicine for the babies than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. Its pleasant taste and prompt and effectual cures make it a favorite with mothers and small children. It quickly cures their coughs and colds, preventing pneumonia or other serious consequences. It also cures croup and has been used in tens of thousands of cases without a single failure so far as we have been able to learn. It not only cures croup, but when given as soon as the croupy cough appears, will prevent the attack. In cases of whooping cough it liquefies the tough mucous, making it easier to expectorate, and lessens the severity and frequency of the paroxysms of coughing, thus depriving that disease of all dangerous consequences. FRIDAY, MAR 9, 1900.

GOD SAVE THE QUEEN.

Yesterday, Victoria, queen of England and empress of India, 81 years of age, rode through London practically unaccompanied by the trappings of royalty. It is asserted that this is the beginning of a personal campaign which the queen is to make for the purpose of arousing to the utmost pitch the enthusiasm of her subjects. This may be the true purpose or not, but certain it is that if she does persist in this plan of meeting her subjects face to face she will arouse such enthusiasm as the world has never seen made over any woman. Not only the war party, but the members of all parties, everyone of whom love and reverence her for her noble character and sympathetic heart as well as for the love she bears them, will join in the acclamation, and it is safe to say that more throats will shout, and with more sincerity, "God save the queen," than have ever yet done so at one time.

The queen gives up her regular Italian trip in order to spend sometime in Ireland, where she has not been in 39 years. She is reported as having said that "my place is with my own people in their hour of trial." When the Spanish Armada, consisting of some one hundred and thirty ships and loaded with a huge army of invasion, was bearing down upon England, and it looked as if Raleigh and Drake and their feeble ships would be swept from the sea, and England be made a province of Spain, Queen Elizabeth rode her horse up and down the coast and personally encouraged her sailors and soldiers, and her courage, determination and enthusiasm, so aroused them, that only a handful of beaten and battered ships of all the proud Spanish fleet, ever reached home again. And so her subjects, in spite of a repulsive personal character, loved "good Queen Bess." And now when England is in trouble, Victoria says "I must be with my people," and, though weighted with the load of 81 years, over sixty of which have been passed as ruler of earth's greatest empire, she goes forth to personally encourage and stimulate her subjects English history must record the name of one more "good queen."

THE CHISEL-FACE STATESMAN.

There is no man so cordially disliked by all kinds of democrats and republicans too, for that matter, in North Carolina as is the present populist senator from our state. And there are a good many reasons for this dislike. Some despise him simply because he is despicable; not because he whipped the democratic party once; not because he is senator or because of his acts as senator, but simply because he is dispicable. Some people dislike him for his utterances on a certain line. In the Forum for February, he has an article—by the way, it is suprising how the Forum will print his senseless vaporings as a diet for its readers—in which he shows why the populist party has not grown as an organization. From a synopsis of the article we quote:

As an explanation of the fact that the party has not grown rapidly as an organization, Senator Butler directs attention to the history of the democratic party since 1892, showing that the principles of the people's party were forced upon the democrats at Chicago in 1896, and that the adoption of the democratic platform of that year and the candidacy of Mr. Bryan, could have no other effect than to check temporarily the growth of the people's party as an organization.

In Butler's reference to what the people's party did, substitute the words, "I did so and so," and you have what he really means and pretty nearly the truth, too, for he has been the most tireless and the sharpest worker in the party. To hear Butler talk in this style of what he makes the democratic party do, is enough to fret any one who is inclined to feel guilty. In the same article he shows that he expects to keep up his regulating influence on the party:

Should the democratic party fail to advance and to keep pace with the demands of commerce and civilization, should it again become simply a party of negation, as it has too often been in the past, the people's party in the next election would poll over 6,000,000 votes.

Some people are attaching importance to the fact that Butler would not admit, when pressed for a direct answer a few days ago in the senate by Mr. Aldrich, that he now is for free silver. The question was put straight for a yes or no answer time and time again, but Butler floundered about, talked foolishly about a conversation he once had with a banker, and repeatedly failed to answer. Some of our contemporaries are placing stress upon this incident as an indication that the populist party, which is Butler, has abandoned silver. We don't set any store by it, first because his refusal to answer does not necessarily mean that he has given it up. It may mean simply his desire to talk and be evasive. He was drawing the attention of the whole senate by standing up and gabbing, while to have merely answered "yes," to the first question would have been a very uneventful matter. Next, he will deny the whole thing in less than two weeks.

GAVE HER HUSBAND ARSENIC.

An Alleged Poisoning Case in Columbia That Has Stirred up the Town.

Columbia, S. C., March 8.—Mrs. Belle Craddick, a handsome young woman, is in jail here charged with poisoning her husband, J. W. Craddick, a baker, who died February 10. Suspicious circumstances caused Coroner Green to order the arrest of the widow and also Eldridge Dawkins, who had been hanging around the woman. The pair was subsequently released on a technicality, and it was thought the affair had ended. But Coroner Green and Police Officer Black persisted in their investigation. The contents of Craddock's stomach were analyzed. Last night the woman was remanded to jail, as the chemist, Dr. C. Y Owings, testified that Craddick's stomach contained enough arsenic to cause death.

Negro cooks and servants testified that while Craddick was sick supposedly with grip, his wife administered some drug in his coffee, avowedly to break him of the liquor and cigarette habit. There had been quarrels between the Craddicks, and the woman was heard to say that she would give fifty dollars for something to put her husband to sleep and keep him so. The bottle was found under the hearthstone and contained an alkaline solution of arsenic. The case has produced a sensation here this morning. Dawkins was not re-arrested.

Craddick bore a good reputation, but recently lost a position on account of his wife, who had the reputation of being a virago. Mrs. Craddick's father is a boiler-maker in the Southern Railway shops and well esteemed.

Dawkins enlisted in the Spanish war and has done nothing since. This is the most sensational scandal in this city for years.

Mrs. McRath, of Ramseur Writes Gratefully to Board of Control.

Ramseur, N. C., March 5, 1900.
Board of Control,
Endowment Rank, Chicago, Ill.
Gentlemen:

I beg leave to extend my grateful acknowledgement for check No. 114760 on First National Bank of Chicago for $1,000 handed me by G. H. Royster, general agent for your company, for policy No. 53185 on the life of my husband James A. McMath.

Please allow me to thank you for the prompt payment of this claim, the same being paid in 43 days after proof of death was received by you. I cannot too highly recommend the Endowment Rank to all Pythians who desire to get desirable insurance at moderate cost, and may each and every Knight avail himself of the grand opportunity offered by the Endowment Rank for the protection of his loved ones after they are bereft of his care and protection.

Again thanking you for your promptness, and wishing for your grand and noble order unbounded success, I am,

Gratefully Yours,
Mary E. McMath.

PREVENTED A TRAGEDY.

Timely information given Mrs. George Long, of New Straitsville, O., prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. A frightful cough had kept her awake every night. She tried many remedies and doctors but steadily grew worse until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of pneumonia. Such cures are positive proof of the matchless merit of this grand remedy for curing all throat, chest and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1 00. Every bottle guaranteed. Trial bottles free at C. RHEUMATISM—CATARRAH—DISEASES CURED BY B. B. B.

It is the deep-seated, obstinate cases of catarrh and rheumatism that B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) cures. It matters not what other treatments, doctors, sprays, liniments, medicated air, blood purifiers, have failed to do, B. B. B always promptly reaches the real cause and roots out and drives from the bones, joints, mucuous membrane, and entire system the specific poison in the blood that causes rheumatism and catarrh. B. B. B. is the only remedy strong enough to do this and cure ond so there can never be a return to the symptoms. Don't give up hope, but try B. B. B. (Botanic Blood Balm) or 3 Bs.

For sale by druggists and Howard Gardner, in Greensboro, at $1 per large bottle, or 6 large bottles (full treatment) $5. To prove our faith in B. B. B. we will send a trial bottle free to sufferers, so they may test the remedy at our expense. Address Blood Balm Co., Atlanta, Ga.

A Tobaccoless Tobacco Heart.

"You have," said a physician, "the tobacco heart." The patient made answer, "Doctor, I never smoked but once, and that was when I was a boy." This happened in Germantown. Both men laughed, and the physician prepared to examine the patient again, so as to make another diagnosis.

After a half hour of hard work the tobacco heart still seemed to resemble the man's disease, and the physician said, "What do you do for a living?" The man replied, "I am a tobacconist."

"Well, then, of course, you've got the tobacco heart, whether you're a smoker or not," said the physician. "All day long you breathe in tobacco. The dust of it fills your lungs, circulates with your blood all over your body and is digested with your food. I have had a number of cases such as yours, and I prescribe eight hours a day in the fresh air. You'll find it hard to follow this prescription. Away from the tobacco laden air of your shop you will have the uneasy, restless longing to get back to it which the smoker, after a few hours of abstinence, has for a cigar. That is strange, but you'll find it true. You have unconsciously acquired the tobacco breathing habit, and it's a habit harder, I believe, to break than the smoking habit itself."—Philadelphia Record.

Old Maryland Superstitions.

Witch Killing.—If horses are so badly bewitched that one dies, the following will deprive the witch of her power: Take the dead horse out into a field and burn the carcass beside a tree. First cut a cross in the tree, then drive a nail in at the cross. Now take your rifle, which must be loaded with a silver bullet, choose a position so that the fire is between you and the tree, and shoot over the fire at the nail. When you hit the nail, the witch will lose her power, and you cannot miss with the silver bullet.

To Sell Oneself to the Devil.—Go to the crossroads at midnight alone and play on the banjo. If you really want to sell yourself, two black dogs will appear and will dance as you play. Then you promise something fearful. Any one who thus sold himself was said to be able to outplay and outdance any competitors.

A Method For a Girl to Try Her Fortune.—Put an egg to the fire and sit an hour. The wind will howl and the dogs bark, and the man you are to marry will come in and turn the egg around. If the egg bursts, you will die (or possibly, my informant adds, you will never marry).—Baltimore Sun.

Will You Live to Be Old?

"That man will not live to be old," remarked a scientific man to the writer, indicating a man who was standing near.

"Why, pray?" the writer queried wonderingly.

"Well, he has not a single physiological index of long life. His head is narrow; he has narrow eyes and nostrils and a long, delicate hand, all of which augur ill for length of days.

"If you observe carefully, you will find that, with rare exceptions, which only serve to emphasize the rule, men who live to be old have wide heads above the ears and wide foreheads. Large and wide nostrils are always evidence that those two important organs, the lungs and the heart, are good. The ears in old men are almost invariably placed low. Again, long lived people usually have broad and short hands—inelegant, it may be, but still an indication of long life.

"If, therefore, you see a man who answers these physical conditions, you may safely, barring accidents, of course, predict for him length of days."—New York Telegram.

One on Him.

"Well, bless my soul!" exclaimed one of the first citizens of Chicago, that breezy metropolis on the banks of Lake Michigan. "When did you hit the town?"

"I have not hit it at all!" corrected the man from Boston. "The largeness of the area and the absence of a definite personality preclude such action."

"That's so," assented the Chicagoan, his cordial hilarity a little less marked. "By the way, where are you stopping?"

"I'm not stopping at all, my dear friend."

"Not stopping at all? Why, what the"—

"No, but I'm staying at the Palmer House. Deuced expensive place, I'll say."

"That's so! Well, it's too bad."

"Too bad! How's that?"

"Well, I was going to invite you to come on out and put up at my house while you were in town, but since you're staying at the Palmer House, I suppose it's no use."

And off he walked.—Kansas City Independent.

An Editor's Life Saved by Chamberlain's Cough Remdy.

During the early part of October, 1896, I contracted a bad cold, which settled on my lungs and was neglected until I feared that consumption had appeared in an incipient state. I was constantly coughing and trying to expel something which I could not. I became alarmed and after giving the local doctor a trial bought a bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and the result was immediate improvement, and after I had used three bottles my lungs were restored to their healthy state.—B. A LUNATIC'S IMITATION.

It Lacked Finish and Got Himself and a Thief Into Trouble.

A Paris correspondent tells an interesting story of how a shop thief was captured recently at the Bon Marche in circumstances that in all probability are unique. One of the private detectives in the pay of the establishment noticed a man who, with the most barefaced effrontery, was appropriating articles of every description. The individual indeed seemed to make little or no attempt to keep his operations secret. He simply walked from counter to counter and filled his pockets with whatever attracted his fancy.

In spite of the strangeness of the man's proceedings there was nothing to be done but to have him arrested, and he was given into custody. His indignation was extreme. He protested that it was most unjust that he should be interfered with in this way when other people who were behaving in exactly the same manner were left unmolested, and he pointed to a stout gentleman of most respectable appearance who he asserted had been laying his hands on all sorts of goods without resorting to the formality of paying for them.

The policeman to whom he had been given in charge had been accustomed to listening to unconvincing explanations and took his prisoner to the station. A few minutes later the stout gentleman, also in the care of a policeman, arrived at the same destination. The detective, whose curiosity had been aroused, had watched the personage and had found it to be true that he was perpetrating theft after theft with the utmost dexterity.

After a short investigation he was recognized to be an expert and notorious shoplifter, whereas the prisoner first arrested proved to be a lunatic but recently discharged from an asylum, whose mania took the form of imitating any person who might happen to strike him. The professional thief was beside himself with rage at what he described as the bad luck of getting into trouble through the vagaries of a madman.

GLASS BULB BOMBS.

Scared the Man Who Used Them, but Vanquished the Burglar.

"Of all the outlandish weapons ever employed in a fight," said a business man of the south side, "I think I brought the most fantastic on record into play one night last week. My family is away on a visit at present, and I am keeping bachelor hall out at the house. On the night to which I refer I was aroused at about 3 a. m. by a noise somewhere in the region of the dining room, and, thinking I had shut up the dog there, I jumped up very foolishly and came down stairs in my nightclothes without so much as a pocketknife.

"When I opened the dining room door, I was startled to see a big, rough looking man bending over the sideboard at the far end of the room, and after we had stood there en tableau for a moment the fellow made a rush at me. I leaped back into the hall and glared around for a weapon. On a table near by were a dozen incandescent light bulbs, which I had brought home to replace some that had burned out, and purely by instinct I grabbed one of them and threw it at the burglar. It hit the door casing close to his head and, to my amazement, exploded with a noise like a young lyddite shell.

"I suppose it was a still greater surprise to the other fellow, for he let out a yell and broke for the rear, followed by a rapid fire bombardment of 16 candle power incandescents, which I continued to chuck at him as long as he remained in range. They smashed against the furniture with a series of crashes that alarmed the whole neighborhood, and I have been gathering up fragments of broken glass ever since.

"The burglar must have thought I was chasing him with hand grenades. It was the first time I ever knew incandescents made such a row when they broke. An electrician tells me it is caused by the air rushing into the vacuum."—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

His Useless Half Dime.

"It isn't safe to start out without a pocketful of pennies any more," remarked a member of the house the other day. "Yet I can remember that when I came down into this section of the country in army blue in 1863 a 5 cent piece was very small potatoes. We were camped awhile out there in Virginia, and my headquarters were in the big plantation home. A son of the house and myself became good friends, although he was 5 and I nearly 35. One day in lieu of the candy which I had forgotten to bring him from the nearby town I gave him a silver half dime. I had forgotten all about the incident, when some two weeks later he came into my room and, opening his hand, held out to me on his little pink palm the silver piece I had given him. 'Heah, Mr. Captain, you can have it back,' he said plaintively. 'It won't buy nuffin.'"—Washington Star.

Ruskin's Generosity.

The late John Ruskin gave away a great deal of money during his life. Many years his annual income from his pen alone was $30,000, but he lived on less than a tenth of that amount. Indeed, he used to say that a gentleman ought to be able to live on $5 a day. If he could not, he deserved speedily to die.

A Way Out of It.

SCROFULA AND ITS AWFUL HORRORS

—CURED BY—

Johnston's Sarsaparilla

QUART BOTTLES.

A MOST WONDERFUL CURE.

A Grand Old Lady Gives Her Experience.

Mrs. Thankful Orilla Hurd lives in the beautiful village of Brighton, Livingston Co., Mich. This venerable and highly respected lady was born in the year 1812, the year of the great war, in Hebron, Washington Co., New York. She came to Michigan in 1840, the year of "Tippecanoe and Tyler too." All her faculties are excellently preserved, and possessing a very retentive memory, her mind is full of interesting reminiscences of her early life, of the early days of the State of Michigan and the interesting and remarkable people she has met, and the stirring events of which she was a witness. But nothing in her varied and manifold recollections are more marvelous and worthy of attention than are her experiences in the use of JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA. Mrs. Hurd inherited a tendency and predisposition to scrofula, that terribly destructive blood taint which has cursed and is cursing the lives of thousands and marking thousands more as victims of the death angel. Transmitted from generation to generation, it is found in nearly every family in one form or another. It may make its appearance in dreadful running sores, in unsightly swellings in the neck or goitre, or in eruptions of varied forms. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may be known as catarrh in the head, or developing in the lungs it may be, and often is, the prime cause of consumption.

Speaking of her case, Mrs. Hurd says: "I was troubled for many years with a bad skin disease. My arms and limbs would break out in a mass of sores, discharging yellow matter. My neck began to swell and became very unsightly in appearance. My body was covered with scrofulous eruptions. My eyes were also greatly inflamed and weakened, and they pained me very much. My blood was in a very bad condition and my head ached severely at frequent intervals, and I had no appetite. I had sores also in my ears. I was in a miserable condition, I had tried every remedy that had been recommended, and doctor after doctor had failed. One of the best physicians in the state told me I must die of scrofulous consumption, as internal abcesses were beginning to form. I at length was told of Dr. Johnston, of Detroit, and his famous Sarsaparilla. I tried a bottle, more as an experiment than anything else, as I had no faith in it, and greatly to my agreeable surprise, I began to grow better. You can be sure I kept on taking it. I took a great many bottles. But I steadily improved until I became entirely well. All the sores healed up, all the bad symptoms disappeared. I gained perfect health, and I have never been troubled with scrofula since. Of course an old lady of 83 years is not a young woman, but I have had remarkably good health since then, and I firmly believe that JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA is the greatest blood purifier and the best medicine in the wide world, both for scrofula and as a spring medicine." This remarkably interesting old lady did not lok to be more than sixty, and she repeated several times, "I believe my life was saved by JOHNSTON'S SARSAPARILLA."

WINE OF CARDUI

How a Woman Suffers.

HOWELL, IND., Nov. 26.

I will always praise Wine of Cardui. It has done me more good than all the medicines I have ever taken in my life. Please send a book about femal diseases to the ladies whose names I enclose.

Mrs. MINNIE STODGHILL.

McELREE'S Wine of Cardui

It isn't necessary for a woman to give particulars. When she says she has "female troubles", other women know what that means. It means days and nights of endless suffering. It means headaches which no tongue can describe. It means that terrible bearing and dragging down in the lower abdomen. It means agonizing backache, and shoulder ache, and arm ache, and aches in the lower limbs. It means nerves on edge—the blues—despondency and loss of hope. It means debilitating drains that the doctors call leucorrhœa. It means martyrdom—sometimes even death seems preferable. And still Wine of Cardui will utterly put those diseases and pains to rout. It has cured thousands of cases when nothing else on earth would. To the budding woman, to the bride, to the wife, to the expectant mother, to those going through the Change of Life, this Vegetable Wine is a blessing.

Copper Colored Splotches.

There is only one cure for Contagious Blood Poison—the disease which has completely baffled the doctors. They are totally unable to cure it, and direct their efforts toward bottling the poison up in the blood and concealing it from view. S. S. S. cures the disease positively and permanently by forcing out every trace of the taint.

I was afflicted with a terrible blood disease, which was in spots at first, but afterwards spread all over my body. These soon broke out into sores, and it is easy to imagine the suffering I endured. Before I became convinced that the doctors could do no good, I had spent a hundred dollars, which was really thrown away. I then tried various patent medicines, but they did not reach the disease. When I had finished my first bottle of S. S. S. I was greatly improved and was delighted with the result. The large red splotches on my chest began to grow paler and smaller, and before long disappeared entirely. I regained my lost weight, became stronger, and my appetite greatly improved. I was soon entirely well, and my skin as clear as a piece of glass.

ROBBED THE GRAVE.

A startling incident, of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows; "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides; no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicians had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying Electric Bitters; and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at C. E. Holton's drug store.

One Minute Cough Cure, cures. That is what it was made for.

Made It Even.

"Lawyer Niles was a humor loving attorney in my old Indiana town," said a drummer. "He owed me $1.90 for several months. He was a prominent citizen of the village, and I was the driver of a five seated carryall that made four trips daily between our town and a neighboring city. So I hesitated to run him. One day as I was passing along in front of his office he gladdened my heart by opening the door and stepping out into the road.

"'Guess I owe you somethin,' Parks?' he asked, looking up at me seated on the wagon.

"'Yes, sir. It is $1.90. I remember.'

"'So it is. So it is'—reaching down in his pocket. 'Have you got 10 cents about you?'

"Of course I had, and as I reached down into my corduroys for the dime I saw visions of the $2 bill that would soon be asleep in my inside pocket. Truth to tell, I was overjoyed, for seldom before had I been in such pressing need for additional money as I was on that particular day. I found the change and gave it to Niles, who coolly put it in his pocket and walked back toward his office without giving me a cent.

"'Thanks,' said he rather unfeelingly as he pulled out a fresh cigar and lit it with exasperating imperturbability. 'Thanks. That'll make it an even $2 now.'"—Detroit News-Tribune.

Scientific Safe "Cracking."

In the experiments made in a burglarious way, among others, a $3,000 square safe of the most approved construction was attacked by inserting in the crevice about the locked door 4 8-10 ounces of nitroglycerin, and in eight minutes after the operation of loading was begun the charge was fired, with the result that the whole of the jamb below the door was blown out and a hole made in the door of sufficient size to admit the hand and arm, while the doors and divisions of the interior compartments were completely shattered. On repeating the operation with 4¼ ounces of forcite dynamite the door was completely torn off.

Among experiments made to demonstrate the resistance of structures to attack by a mob was one upon a safe 29 inches cube, with walls 4¾ inches thick, made up of plates of iron and steel, which were re-enforced on each edge so as to make it highly resisting, yet when a hollow charge of dynamite 9½ pounds in weight and untamped was detonated on it a hole three inches in diameter was blown clear through the wall, though a solid cartridge of the same weight and of the same material produced no essential effect.—Popular Science Monthly.

A Cautious Man.

The familiar saw that no man can be a hero to his valet was illustrated to me the other day in an amplified and peculiar form. It was while sitting with a man of affairs that his stenographer entered, saying that a certain other man desired to speak to my acquaintance over the telephone. "Take it," said my man and forthwith picked up his extension machine, through which he talked with the man at the other end, the conversation including matters of finance, politics and personal business of a most familiar and confidential sort. He didn't mind me at all—I didn't count. We continued our conversation, and just as I was ready to leave the stenographer entered with several sheets of manuscript, which she laid on the desk.

"That goes on file," said my man. "I invariably have a record kept of my telephone talks, and I've found it to pay. While I talk the stenographer holds the main line and puts it down." I made up my mind that if I had anything particular to say to that man hereafter I'd tell him on the street or in some place other than his office.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Restaurant Thieves.

"Why don't you use after dinner coffee spoons?" asked a woman at a first class up town restaurant of the proprietor the other evening, finding it somewhat inconvenient to use a large spoon with her small cup. "We did have them when we first opened," answered the proprietor. "We had six dozen, but they gradually disappeared until now only three are left, and we consider it more economical to use the larger spoons, for which people do not seem to have such a fancy."

At many restaurants when a glass of claret or sherry is called for it is served in a tiny decanter. These miniature bottles are very attractive. They seem to appeal, as many small things do, to the taste of many people. One man who visits now and again many different restaurants boasts that he has over two dozen of these pretty little decanters. He doesn't say how he came by them, but he didn't purchase them.—New York Times.

A British Army Corps.

The British army corps as nominally constituted numbers 30,259 officers and men. A large number of these are "technical" troops, in charge of the pontoons, field telegraph, railway appliances, balloons, field batteries and field hospitals. Eliminating all of these technical troops, the strength of a division in infantry, cavalry and artillery is 9,449 men, with 18 guns; of an army corps, 30,799 men, with 102 guns.

INDIGESTION

Cured by Johnson's Dyspepsia Cure

"I suffered over two years with Indigestion and Nervous Dyspepsia, unable to eat or sleep. I tried several physicians and different remedies, but they only helped me for a short time. A friend advised me to take Johnson's Dyspepsia Cure. I have taken three boxes, and am now feeling better than I have for two years. Have a good appetite, sleep well and have none of the symptoms of Indigestion or Dyspepsia, while I have gained ten pounds in weight within a couple of months. I am taking pleasure in recommending Johnson's Dyspepsia Cure wherever I can, and several of my friends are taking it with marked results."—L. A. Arnold, Cinn.

Notes of.... The Prowler

A few bright days of balmy weather,
Brought out the birds galore;
Flitting with unruffled feather,
Thinking winter was o'er.

Too soon, my pretty little birds;
Uncertain March, you know,
Lingers yet, and the cattle herds
Are tramping in the snow.

Too soon, my pretty songsters, sweet;
You have no place to go;
The icy limbs will freeze your feet
While singin' in the snow.

The Prowler wrote the above with his feet under the office stove. We suggested that he change the last line of the last verse, on the ground that no sensible bird would attempt to sing while his feet were freezing on an icy limb. The Prowler looked at us in disgust, and said:

"Don't you get the point? That is poetry; and it don't make a cent's worth of difference whether there is any sense in it or not."

We caught the point, and the Prowler left with a promise to write no more poetry.

A Pleasant Evening.

The literary meeting of Centenary church was held at the elegant home of Dr. and Mrs. E. L. Stamey, corner Gorrell and Asheboro streets, last night. An interesting program was rendered, after which Mrs. Stamey entertained those present by serving a choice line of refreshments. It was one of the most pleasant meetings the society has ever had.

Another Cutting Fracas.

The police were notified late last evening of a cutting scrape at a disreputable house in the eastern part of the city. It is claimed that a young man was making himself boisterous, that he entered the kitchen and was proceeding to try to run things, when two women, Louise Allen and Lillian Reese attempted to put him out. He drew a knife and cut a gash on the left arm of Louise between the elbow and shoulder. The Reese women also received a cut under the chin. A physician was summoned and found both wounds to be superficial. The police think they know the man.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP BEST

AN OBJECT LESSON IN ITS BENEFITS SHOWN.

Private Company Wanted $80 Per Arc Light But the Town Made It at a Cost of $26.50.

Greensboro people have been for some time discussing municipal ownership. Some interesting figures, demonstrating what has been done in Atlantic Highlands, N. J., are found in the article below, printed in the New York Journal:

The town has just presented an unanswerable argument in favor of the Journal's fight for the municipal ownership of illuminating plants, in the annual report of the board of commissioners just issued. In this report the result of the enterprising town's experiment is shown in a way that must be interesting to the taxpayer.

Four years ago the town issued bonds for $15,000 to raise money for the building of an electric light plant sufficient to supply the needs if the municipality, as well as individuals. Previous to that act on the town had advertised for bids, and of several the lowest was $80 a year pe lamp of two thousand candle power, the contract to be for a term of five years.

The enterprising officials of the town rejected the bids and concluded that if private concerns could furnish the light at $80 the town could furnish it for less. The plant was established and the wisdom of the course has been demonstrated.

Including the payment of $750 interest during the past year the town paid for its street lighting $1,808.27, or about $26.60 for each of its 68 lamps—or less than one-third the price asked by the lowest private bidder.

Besides supplying its own light at a very moderate cost the town has done much for its citizens by illuminating houses and stores at a price that has made the new system of lighting very popular. Nearly $300 was received from this source and the number of consumers was doubled during the last year. This increase is expected to continue, and within a very few years it is hoped that the municipal lighting will cost nothing at all. The bonds will soon be be retired and an annual charge thus removed from the cost of production. The next step will be toward reducing the price to individuals.

The experiment has shown what enormous profits would accrue to any private company furnishing light at the prices fixed by the bidders. The benefits resulting from the municipal control of the illumination are two-fold: First, in reducing the tax upon citizens for the lighting of the town, and second, by the the direct cost to citizens for the illumination of their homes and stores.

This is not the first experiment in municipal ownership in this town. The water supply is controlled by the town and so well has its affairs been managed that the waterworks are almost self-supporting.

It was necessary last year to raise $2,800 by taxation, but $1,700 of this went for interest, which will soon be reduced and in a few years be wiped out by the maturity of the bonds.

QUARANTINE RAISED.

And Guilford has Free Access to Chatham Again.

The quarantine established several weeks ago against Guilford county by the authorities of Chatham has been practically abandoned for more than two weeks Although the ticket agents here have persistently insisted on parties going to points in Chatham having health certificates before purchasing tickets, the conductors have not required those having mileage or those paying on the trains to produce such certificates for over two weeks. The guards placed at the stations had also been withdrawn for more than two weeks and on alighting from trains in Chatham, people have not been required to produce "credentials."

The trouble has at last been officially ended, and the ticket agents given notice that the quarantine is raised, as the following will show:

"Office Board Commissioners,
"Chatham County
"March 6, 1900.

"Ordered, that the quarantine against Guilford county is raised from date, and that due notice be given to the superintendent of health of said county, and also to the railroad officials at Greensboro.

Next to the Consumer is where we stand in the lumber business. At the kicking post, as it were, in regard to prices.

First comes the owner of the timber. He just woke up to the value of it and wants double last year's prices. Then the sawmill man. He has not been making a fortune and thinks now he should share a little in the general prosperity.

They say to us: "We must have so much for our trees and work." After a while it is "up to you." Don't kick. You don't suppose we have nerve enough to put up prices unless they had first been put up on us. No, indeed. But prices are NOT high. They have been to low and are just now getting reasonable. Your children will be glad to build at double the price it now costs you. It is a trite, but true saying, if you want to build, "Now is the time."

And ours is the place to get the stuff.
